A native of San Diego and graduate of UC Santa Barbara, April brings a rare authenticity to her writing as a former U.S. Army Paratrooper. Her military background shapes the tactical realism, leadership dynamics, and strategic depth found throughout the worlds she creates.

A fast-paced, strong female lead driven sci-fi/fantasy series featuring humans and elves battling a race of artificial intelligence, dragons are their living star ships, while questioning reality and their relationships. Blending high-stakes storytelling with immersive world-building, the GwenSeven series has quickly gained traction with convention audiences and young adult/adult crossover readers.
